GARDEN

Scientists Wanted

We are looking for high schoolers, undergraduates, graduate students, professionals and academic scientists wanting to offer their scientific knowledge to the public!

Our Mission

As a part of the Garden's mission, we want to build upon strong educational programs and specialized research in order to achieve world-class recognition.

BENEFITS

- ❖ Develop public speaking communication skills
- ❖ Create hands-on educational activities based on your work
- ❖ Opportunities to interact face-to-face with the public about science
- ❖ Build connections with other scientists of different fields
- ❖ Professional Development and Community Service credit

Participant Expectations

This program is a two month free series that requires the following: Professional Development Workshops

There will be two required free workshops that will address the following through group and individual activities:

- ❖ How People Learn
- ❖ Activity Development
- ❖ Facilitation of Engagement
- ❖ Prototype Event

Materials for Presentation

We expect scientists to provide their own materials for the majority of their activity.

Public Program: Science Sundays

Each Scientist will showcase their work to the public at the Garden at least once. Scientists will directly educate fellow community members while building confidence in their communication skills.

Dates

Workshops

Scientists must participate in all of the following:

- ❖ March 12: Workshop 1
- ❖ March 19: Workshop 2
- ❖ April 2: Prototype Event

Public Program

Scientists must participate in at least one of the following dates:

- ❖ April 8,15,22,29 and May 6
